

BRIDGEVIEW BIKE LANE

Partners: Hiawatha Addison (Bridgeview Village manager), Jared Bramblett (civil engineer), Vonie Gilreath (BCDCOG, CARTA), Charlie Letts (resident), Betsy La Force (CCL), Megan McNamara (Gotcha Bike), Jennifer Williams (The Palace Apartments manager)

Technical assistance provided by City of Charleston and South Carolina Department of Transportation

AWAKENING: MOTION is a series of public, community-led art projects in Charleston's Upper Peninsula that aims transform our streets, demonstrating what's possible when you plan for safe, connected, dignified transportation.

Bridgeview Village is a low-income multi-family housing complex that is relatively isolated from the rest of the Charleston peninsula. Many residents, including young children, rely on bus, bike, or foot to access amenities at least a half-mile away. The route currently does not have a safe and dedicated space for people on bikes. The Bridgeview Bike Lane will be a temporarily installed two-way cycle track from Bridgeview along Brigade Street, crossing Morrison and Meeting Streets, leading to the entrance of the future Lowline beneath I-26. Once on the existing maintenance path adjacent to the future Lowline, riders will be directed to a temporary entrance to Grove Street, leading to Food Lion, other shopping and restaurants, schools, places of worship, a library and community greenspaces.

By marking a clear, direct bike route to the center of the Upper Peninsula, local partners hope to create a safer, more dependable path, especially for the children of Bridgeview.

Project Total: $2,500

For more information or to get involved, contact Savannah@CharlestonMoves.org